Video Games and a Memory Chip: How to End the HJ (Iran) and HT (Cameroon) discretion test

Following the November 2024 Strasbourg Court judgment in MI v Switzerland, discretion-reasoning cannot be applied to Article 3 ECHR protection claims, but still continues to be applied in the UK. Chelvan argues by revisiting Lord Rodger's 2010 Supreme Court guidance itself, the number of negative asylum refusals based on discretion can only reasonably amount to approximately - nil.
