Practice Summary

Prior to joining Chambers in 2000, John had been an elected member of a London borough for 18 years, 5 as the leader of the authority. That experience has given John insight and understanding into how local authorities work in practice and the constraints they work under as well as a broad knowledge of local government law.

John has developed a practice covering all areas of housing law; local government law; landlord and tenant (both residential and business tenancies); and aspects of public law.
