

Imogen Marchant

Year of Call: 2026

Practice Summary

Imogen commenced pupillage in October 2026.

Imogen is interested in building a practice across the full range of Chambers' public and commercial expertise. She was previously a Visiting Lecturer in Contract Law at City University.

In the year before commencing pupillage, Imogen worked as a paralegal at a boutique commercial litigation firm. She has appeared as an advocate before the Upper Tribunal with the Free Representation Unit and completed a legal internship at the AIRE Centre, where she worked on public law challenges to immigration decisions.

Imogen holds an MSt in English Literature from Magdalen College, Oxford, and a BA in English Literature from Durham University. She ranked in the top two of her cohort in each year of her undergraduate and graduate degrees.

Education

- University of Oxford, MSt English Literature (650-1550) – Distinction
- University of Durham, BA English Literature – First Class Honours
- City University, GDL – Distinction
- Inns of Court College of Advocacy, Bar Course